

A'

Abstract of the Disclosure

A method for introducing a substance comprising a nucleic acid into a mammalian neural stem cell or progenitor cell, characterized in that said nucleic acid directly interacts with the cell membrane of said cell or a component within said cell membrane whereby the substance comprising said nucleic acid is taken up by the cell via the inherent transport mechanism of the cell, is disclosed. Also different applications of said method are disclosed.

0989242 071301
FOET 20" 24268860